Education.

- 2024-present: PhD student in Econometrics and Statistics, the University of Chicago, Booth School of Business. Advisor: Tengyuan Liang.
- 2022-2024 PhD student in Statistics, Rutgers University. Advisor: Pierre C. Bellec.
- 2018-2022: BE in Mathematical Engineering, the University of Tokyo.

I am broadly interested in the mathematical theory and algorithms underlying statistics and machine learning. My current research focuses on:

- Theoretical foundations of LLM alignment
- Mean-field high-dimensional statistics
- Combinatorial stochastic processes

Preprint.

- (1) A Markov Chain Approach to Preference Alignment

Award.

- IMS Hannan Graduate Student Travel Award, 2025.
- Travel award, Yale FDS workshop honoring Andrew Barron, 2024.
- Best Ph.D. Qualifying Exam Performance, Department of Statistics, Rutgers University, 2023.
- Student Travel Award, IMS International Conference on Statistics and Data Science, 2022.
- Best Presentation Award, 16th Japan Statistical Society Spring Meeting, 2022.
- Japan Statistical Society Certificate Director's Award, 2022.

Talk.

- Proceedings of the 43rd International Conference on Machine Learning (ICML), Seoul, July 2026.
- ISBA satellite Meeting 2026, Tokyo, July 2026.
- Proceedings of the 42nd International Conference on Machine Learning (ICML), Vancouver, July 2025.
- Workshop on Statistical Network Analysis and Beyond (SNAB), Tokyo, June 2025.
- IMS International Conference on Statistics and Data Science, Nice, December 2024.
- Workshop Honoring Andrew Barron: Forty Years at the Interplay of Information Theory, Probability and Statistical Learning, Yale University, April 2024.
- IMS Asia Pacific Rim Meeting, Melbourne, January 2024.
- Seminar talk, Graduate school of Economics, the University of Tokyo, February 2023.
- IMS International Conference on Statistics and Data Science, Florence, December 2022.
- Workshop on random partition of integers, the University of Tokyo, June 2022.
- Japan Statistical Society Meeting, Keio University, March 2022.

Review.
